

Mitosis is the process of cell division that produces two identical daughter cells. It has four phases: prophase, metaphase, anaphase and telophase.